Workshop Committee Update

Lindsay announced that the committee found a psychologist who agreed to lead the workshop, along with a small group of local psychologists to lead events the evening before as part of the workshop for no charge.

Joanna reported the final cost estimate of the workshop to be close to $8000. She also said GRASP would need to pay about $3700 up front as part of a contract. This raised concerns within the group, which led to the decision to postpone the workshop until the fall with hopes of securing funds.

Patrick made a motion to form a fundraising committee for the workshop. Naomi (chair), Mark, and Lisa volunteered to members of the committee, as well as the present workshop committee members. It was decided that the fundraising committee will be responsible for organizing the logistics of potential fundraisers and reporting them to the group. The members also decided there would need to be a group effort within GRASP to carry out the fundraisers.

The next meeting is set for March 7th at 7:00 pm with location TBD.
